

Fajr Kith

Photojournalist

I am a photojournalist with over three years of experience in the field. I have worked for both print and online publications, and have a strong portfolio that showcases my range of skills. I am passionate about telling stories through my photography, and feel that this is where my true strength lies. I have reported on various different assignments, from local news stories to more hard-hitting pieces investigating social issues. No matter what the story is, I always aim to capture it in the most truthful and powerful way possible.
